

Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. (CF&I): Primary Source Set

CF&I Plant, c. 1908	Aerial view of CF&I Pueblo Mills looking SW, 1962	Aerial photograph of Pueblo Plant looking W, 1962	Workers in the Steel Production department, 1979
Photo of Colorado Fuel & Iron Plant in Pueblo around 1908	Aerial view of CF&I Pueblo Mills, looking southwest toward the Spanish Peaks, April 13, 1962	Aerial photograph of Pueblo Plant looking west. In view are east slag piles, entire mill, Bessemer neighborhood, and Salt Creek neighborhood. April 13, 1962.	Workers in the Steel Production department. Worker standing with his back to the photographer is Larry Trujillo, continuous caster helper. Workers on lower level are mould helpers Eloy Arellano, Ray Guerro, and Joe Alvarado. February 09, 1979
	 Photo courtesy of the Steelworks Center	 Photo courtesy of the Steelworks Center	 Photo courtesy of the Steelworks Center
Library of Congress Photograph Collection	Steelworks Center of the West, Pueblo, cfi_pla_0067	Steelworks Center of the West, Pueblo, cfi_pla_0055	Steelworks Center of the West, Pueblo, cfi_pla_ste_0021
Resource link	Resource link	Resource link	Resource link

Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. (CF&I)

Julian Gallegos lifting nails, 1964	Gilbert Trujillo, journeyman electrician, 1962	Workers near sulfurization unit, undated	Workers outside north entrance of the Wire Mill, 1965
Worker Julian Gallegos lifting boxes of nails, February 11, 1964	Worker Gilbert Trujillo, journeyman electrician, at a machine. Picture taken for CF&I Blast 's "Hand Tools" story, February 16.	Two workers standing near the sulfurization unit, undated photo	Four workers outside of north entrance of the Wire Mill holding belt buckets and jackets awarded to them for breaking safety records. From left: Fred Pohill, Don Anderson, "Hoss" Trujillo, and John Kambich, 1965
 Photo courtesy of the Steelworks Center	 Photo courtesy of the Steelworks Center	 Photo courtesy of the Steelworks Center	 Photo courtesy of the Steelworks Center
Steelworks Center of the West, Pueblo, cfi_pla_wir_0034	Steelworks Center of the West, Pueblo, cfi_pla_sho_0014	Steelworks Center of the West, Pueblo, cfi_pla_sho_0010	Steelworks Center of the West, Pueblo, cfi_pla_wir_0033
Resource link	Resource link	Resource link	Resource link

Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. (CF&I)

Colorado Fuel and Iron Company Charged with Race and Sex Discrimination, 1976	Joe Chavez, Working at the Pueblo smelter, interactions between Mexicans and Spanish Americans	Joe Chavez, Retiring from CF&I, discrimination witnessed at CF&I	Molten steel and slag on the casting floor, 1966
Front page news article of October 1976 from La Cucaracha explaining the investigations into the Pueblo plant, which has racially and sexually discriminated against employees with "Spanish surnames."	In 1978 Joe Chavez shares a story of when he used to work at the Pueblo smelter. In this story he got into a fight with other workers. Joe Chavez's story highlights some of the tensions between Mexicans, and as Chavez puts it, Spanish Americans.	In 1978 Joe Chavez recalls the one of the departments he worked in and the conditions that he had to work under. In his description, he also talks about how Mexicans were put in the lowest paying and often most tiring departments.	Molten steel and slag in ditches on the casting floor. Three workers are seen wearing safety gear. January, 1966.

CHNC, La Cucaracha . October 4, 1976	PCCLD SC, PLD Oral History Tape #10	PCCLD SC, PLD Oral History Tape #10	Steelworks Center of the West, Pueblo, cfi_pla_bla_0146
Resource link Link to Full Source	Resource link	Resource link	Resource link

Abbreviations: CHNC Colorado Historic Newspapers Collection

See also: PSS on Unions and Strikes

Prepared by Latino History Project, 2018